Submits Supplementary Program Involving "Over a Billion Dollars"; Asks Action Without Delay

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 31.—President Roosevelt submitted to congress today a supplemental emergency defense program, involving "over a billion dollars," and asked for action without delay.

This latest enlargement of the military program is necessitated, Mr. Roosevelt said in a message to the legislators because of "almost incredible events" in the past two weeks of Europe's war—"particularly as a result of the use of aviation and mechanized equipment."

Can't Foretell Future

"No individual, no group can clearly foretell the future," the chief executive asserted. "As long, however, as a possibility exists that not one continent or two continents but all continents may become involved in a world-wide war, reasonable precaution demands that American defense be made more certain."

The one most obvious lesson taught by the conflict raging overseas, Mr. Roosevelt said, "is the value of the factor of speed."

No Specific Figure

The President mentioned no specific figure and gave no breakdown of the new program, which follows by 15 days his original emergency request for $1,182,000,000 for expansion of the nation's armed forces and shoves the defense bill total to more than $4,300,000,000.

Details of the supplementary program were left for representatives of the war and navy departments and other government agencies for presentation to the appropriate congressional committees.

BERLIN ADMITS
BLOODY FLANDERS

Greatest Immediate Danger
Seen From Italian
Sector

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

If you would have a concrete illustration of whether the Anglo-French determination to prosecute the war has been weakened by adversity in the battle of Flanders, it is to be had in two brief sentences taken from different parts of the Associated Press report today:

PARIS—A second British expeditionary force has arrived in France, it was announced yesterday, to take over the Somme salient.

BERLIN—Meanwhile the great and bloody fighting at Flanders, chiefly through the port of Dunkerque, continued with unabated fury.

The War Goes On

So the war is going on, Flanders or no Flanders, and let no one doubt the magnitude of the stake. It is nothing less than to determine whether empires shall survive.

When I arrived in my New York office in the early morning hours, I greeted one of the printer attendants with "Well, who's winning the war?"

He looked at me speculatively for a moment and then replied: "I guess maybe nobody's winning."

And I guess maybe he is right. In any event, the jubilant Hitler is busy with plans for following up his great initial success. And the Allies have turned grim faces straight toward the storm.

Perhaps the greatest immediate danger which could beset the Allies would be an onslaught by Italy against France itself while they are weakened and considerably disorganized as a result of the defeat in Flanders.

New Trial Looms

The Allies certainly have plenty of reason to believe that Mussolini may be getting ready to take some sort of hand in the bloody game. Whether the British and French could shoulder that extra weight

DOUBLE QUOTA,
ASKS RED CROSS

More Relief Funds Sought
As European Tragedy
Unfolds

"Double your quota!"

That's the appeal that went out to Red Cross chapters throughout the nation today from National Chairman Norman Davis as one of the greatest tragedies in all history unfolds on Europe's battlefields.

"Chapters should go on and, where possible, double their quotas," said Davis. "In fact, the only limitation should be the maximum generosity of the American people."

On May 25 the Salem chapter sent $600 to national and tomorrow will send $400 more, making half the chapter's original quota of $2,000.

"We hope," said chapter officials, "that the generosity of Salem people will permit us to double our quota. If those who have already given desire to double their quotas, it will be necessary only to leave their contributions at the bank or postoffice or mail direct to the Red Cross office in the Memorial building."

Charles Youngblood of Canton, arrested by Corp. W. E. Arey of the state patrol on a charge of failure to stop for a school bus, was fined $25 and costs in the mayor's court.

Germans Use Medieval Methods

Blitzkriegs not only utilize such ultra-modern tools of war as the flame-throwing tank, dive bombers and parachutes but also include the use of methods of war prevalent in ancient times—such as pontoon bridges and scaling ladders. Pictured above is a detachment of German troops crossing a Belgian river and scaling the abutment of a destroyed bridge by means of scaling ladders in the manner of medieval soldiers storming a castle wall.

200 Or More Salem Seniors
To Get Diplomas On June 6

Rev. Carl Asmus To Deliver Baccalaureate Sermon
At 7:30 P. M. Sunday at High School

A class of approximately 200 Seniors is expected to receive diplomas at Salem High school commencement exercises next Thursday night.

Supt. of Schools E. S. Kerr said today that the number probably will be between 200 and 204, subject to approval by the board of education which meets Monday night.

A record class was graduated last year when 205 Seniors were awarded diplomas.

The baccalaureate service for the Seniors will be held at 7:30 p. m. Sunday in the High school auditorium, featuring a sermon by Rev. Carl Asmus, pastor of the Methodist church. His topic will be "Discipline For Freedom."

The baccalaureate program, arranged by school officials in cooperation with the Salem Ministerial association, will include: Invocation by Rev. R. D. Walter of the Presbyterian church; Scripture reading, Rev. John D. Guy of the Nazarene church; songs by a trio composed of Ruth Stoudt, Margaret Fronius and Betty Kirchgesner, with violin obligato by Gustav Conja; prayer, Rev. C. F. Evans of the Christian church; Girls' Glee club, two selections; benediction, Rev. John Bauman, of the Emmanuel Lutheran church.

The students today turned their attention to the annual Junior-Senior prom scheduled for tonight.

The prom, in which the Juniors fele the Seniors, will open with a 6:30 dinner in the Masonic temple, followed by a dance in the decorated High school gymnasium. Between 250 and 300 are expected to attend.

George Baillie will be toastmaster for the dinner program. Freddie Snyder's orchestra of Alliance will play for the dancing in the "gym" commencing at 8:30. Miss Mary Roth, Junior class advisor, is general chairman of the committees in charge.

(By Associated Press)

ROME, May 31.—Italians close to the government said today that any announcement of Italy's entrance into the European war probably would come only after the Italian forces already had moved and that the world probably would learn of the first actions from points outside Italy.

Widespread belief that Italian participation was imminent came from Premier Mussolini's call for a cabinet meeting next Tuesday to discuss "important matters."

Fascist practice has been to divulge momentous decisions after they have been taken through the fascist grand council which includes most of the cabinet. There has been no announcement, however, of a summons for a council meeting.

Italy assured Greece five days ago that her neutrality would be safe from any Italian attack, a competent source disclosed.

French Reach Dunkerque

PARIS, May 31.—Two divisions of the French rearguard for the Allied retreat from Flanders have fought their way to Dunkerque, it was announced at this afternoon's ministry of information press conference.

These divisions, numbering perhaps 30,000 men in all before they underwent the shattering attack in Flanders, were said to have reached the channel port—exit from the northern battle zone—just as Germany's mechanized legions laid siege to the town.

Armored columns smashed at the Dunkerque gateway and slashed around the French rearguard which covered itself in the manner of Caesar's forces—boxed in by armored phalanxes.

London Hears
Hitler May Try
To Split Allies

Latter, However, Indicate No Weakening of Bond; British Isles Turned Into Fortress Against Direct Attack

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, May 31.—Expectations that Adolf Hitler might try to split the British and French Allies with separate offers of peace were voiced today as British troops who escaped from the Nazi trap in Flanders still poured home from the inferno across the channel.

Informed observers, weighing the possibilities of the next Nazi stroke, considered these possibilities:

1. A separate peace offer to France with a great land and air assault on Paris if France refuses.
2. A threat of an Italian flank attack.
3. An ultimatum to Britain to accept Germany's terms or face "total war."

(Authorized sources in Berlin expected a "sensational announcement" to come from a conference between Hitler and Paul Joseph Goebbels, German propaganda minister.)

But both official utterances and the press indicated no weakening of the Allies' "unbreakable bond."

Isles Become Fortress

Britain's island kingdom was being turned into a formidable fortress against the possibility of a direct Nazi attack and Supply Minister Herbert Morrison warned of extreme measures against war factories showing "signs of slackness, irresolution, slow starting or mud-dle."

Evacuation of "large numbers" of British and French troops from northern France "still goes on," military circles said.

Some British soldiers said they had inflicted five casualties for every one they suffered but, commenting on a German claim that the British had been routed, an army spokesman acknowledged that "the hard fact remains that no military operation is so difficult as rearmarkation at the end of a retreat."

Loss of the anti-aircraft cruiser Curlew off Norway was announced. However, the operations off France and Belgium were described in military circles as so large that despite the loss of three destroyers, a transport and auxiliary vessels, Germany "was unable to inflict more than minor injuries on ships engaged in the embarkation."

War On "Fifth Column"

With the retreat from Flanders giving Germany potential bombing bases only five minutes from England's southeast coast, the government and the people concentrated their attention on the "fifth column" menace.

To make sure that any invading forces dropped from the air would find no effective help from within the country, Scotland Yard pressed its hunt for fifth-column equipment—arms, munitions and uniforms.

In early-morning raids in several London districts, an undisclosed number of fifth-column suspects were arrested and held for internment.

Vice-Admiral Sir John Somerville assured Britons their defense forces were prepared to meet any attempted Nazi landing, whether from the air or from the sea.

In 15 coast towns 39,000 children (61 per cent of the school population) already have been registered for shipment to districts farther west, such as the sheltering hills of Wales.

THEY JUST ASKED

They won't be missed, except as a well developed case of scitica is missed when it goes away, but highway inspection stations for Japanese beetle detection are going to be largely discontinued.

The department of agriculture has been obliged to admit they were better at stopping automobiles than beetles. These subversive creatures simply had no respect for quarantines. They were as irresponsible as a boy with a garden hose.

It will be remembered that the inspectors were, for the most part, models of courtesy and accommodation. They merely asked about certain fruits, shrubs and vegetables and always seemed glad to take no for an answer. Millions must have wondered what would have come of it if the answer had been yes, but now they'll probably never know.

AN EXPERT PRODUCER

When Henry Ford says his production organization could build 1,000 airplanes a day at the end of 20 months of preparation, Americans prick up their ears. Though Mr. Ford makes a habit of passing off-hand opinions on a variety of subjects, his opinions on one subject—mass production—are those of an expert.

It could be done, he says, by putting in use what is known about mass production in the automobile industry. Two additional things would be essential. Standard models and freedom from red tape. Unit cost would be greatly reduced under mass production.

Mr. Ford's confidence is important. It verifies popular belief that the secret of plane production, universally held to be the foremost defense need, is determination to do the job right. Once that decision is made in a manner leaving industrialists free to do what they know how to do, more than half the problem will be solved.

SURRENDER WITHOUT HONOR

Belgium's King Leopold, for reasons which only can be guessed at, has surrendered to Germany. Insofar as his personal decision can affect the Belgian army and government, the young king has taken from France and Great Britain their only effectual ally, Poland, the Netherlands, Norway—and now Belgium.

If Belgium's foreign policy had been conducted with an eye to Belgian interest, the new war never would have reached its present desperate state. King Leopold's insistence that Germany, which betrayed his country in 1914, would not betray it again opened a fatal breach in Allied defense.

When the time came, Nazis took ruthless advantage of Belgian failure to cooperate with France on problems of defense. Some observers feel France would have been justified in taking over the country lock, stock and barrel in 1936, when Leopold invited disaster by announcing he would observe strict neutrality. It was plain to some then—to everybody now—that Belgium was the Achilles' heel in Allied defense—that Germany would take advantage of the mistake. Its territory furnished, as it did 25 years ago, the German road to France. Its king's prized neutrality was also her scrap of paper.

It was a tragic mistake. The tragedy is being measured in thousands of corpses, untold destruction, the destruction of a way of life for hundreds of millions of Europeans, the apparent triumph of violence as the only international force worth trying. The least King Leopold could have done was to pay for his ghastly blunder with his own life. His surrender is without honor.

MONEY'S WORTH

The task of congress, which must authorize the spending and provide the wherewithal for defense, would be eased greatly if immediate steps were taken to bolster confidence in the program's financial management.

Tuesday's proposal for a $3,000,000,000 boost in the national debt limit and new taxes up to $700,000,000 a year should be accompanied by steps to take armament spending completely out of partisan politics. It is not a political job.

Former President Hoover's suggestion of a non-political munitions administration, headed by a capable, energetic individual, with full power to allot money on request from the army and navy, is timely and sound.

There are a number of men whose appointment to such a position would command popular and congressional confidence. None of them is a member of the Roosevelt administration. None of them is well known in any political capacity at present.

They are men of proved capacity in management, men who have lived intimately with the necessity of getting their money's worth. They have not drawn their livelihood from the public payroll, nor their fame from ability to inflame public passions.

Some of them are members of one political party; some of them are members of the other political party. Some of them are independent of both parties. Their voting allegiance on election day should be of no consequence. It is not a coalition of politicians the country needs to make its defense spending count, but a coalition of common, everyday business ability.

There is no place in the defense program for partisanship. It should not be an occasion for another spree of political inbreeding. This isn't the New Deal or the "old deal" saving the country, but the country trying to save itself.

It must be assumed the responsible heads of the army and navy know what is needed. It must be assumed American manufacturers, the most energetic and resourceful group of businessmen in the world, can furnish what is needed.

The responsibility of politicians is to get the war and navy departments in touch with their sources of supply. It should not be necessary to make any tire-some and costly detours through the dark alleys and bypaths of politics to do this.

Administration of the defense program will be a gigantic job, rivaled only by the job of being chief executive of the country. That is a compelling reason why it should be turned over to someone who can give it full time and the benefit of experience in management. It is too important to be handled as a sideline by a politician.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, June 1

SURPRISING and unexpected change and travel may mark this day, judging by the lunar transits. The journeys may be to nearby places rather than distant and the change may not be of major consequence, unless it be in connection with engagements, courtship, marriage and even elopements, since the element of the spectacular figures. Contracts, letters and writings are vital in promoting good will and pleasure, and intrigues are to be prudently managed.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of change and travel, with short journeys having the element of romance of intrigue rather than more sordid aspects. Contracts, writings and correspondence figure importantly and greatly to the advantage. These, too, concern romance or affection, which are stressed in the year's adventures. Be vigilant as to curious intrigues or snares, since there are auguries of the sensational or unconventional.

A child born on this day may be versatile, adaptable, have unusual talents perhaps in an intellectual, scientific or unique expression. It may be adventurous and romantic, possibly carried into intrigue and unconventionality by its pronounced affections or emotional responses.

"ENGLAND EXPECTS EVERY MAN TO DO HIS DUTY—"

Sings Lemonade's Praises

King of Beverages, Says Clendenning

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Crowned a King of Beverages
THE FIRST drink out of a glass other than water or milk that was ever offered me was lemonade. This event occurred in 1891 and I remember it well. It was proffered me by a gentleman named Aldrich who had a wooden leg and a rich, friendly voice. The very words which accompanied this regal gift came back to me. He said, "Here little boy, put this under your belt."

The locale of the proceeding was on Penn street, just below Seventeenth street, Kansas City, Missouri, and the house is still standing. At least the porch is. I have sampled, I presume, somewhere roughly in the neighborhood of a zillion different concoctions in the form of drinks in the interim but I sincerely believe lemonade is the best beverage of all. Not even excepting my first experiments—water and milk. Water and milk. I am bound to praise as a hygienist but they are more or less for emergency purposes when you can't get anything else. They are kind of like the constitution of the United States; they are there; I am glad to see them and I have always had them and they arouse enthusiasm in me only when I am exposed to oratory by a health specialist.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

But lemonade is different. Oh! I am not talking only about the hygienic qualities of lemonade though I will probably get around to that in a minute or two. Lemonade has Vitamin C, minerals, caloric value, and fluid content, which last is important now that the summer season is upon us and we have begun to sweat again.

Lemonade must be well concocted. It isn't hard to teach a person to make a good lemonade but it is hard to teach them to keep on taking the trouble to make a good lemonade.

You must in the first place have real lemons—not an extract. They should be large, juicy, and when I refer to them as "they" I speak advisedly—there should be the juice of three lemons. Put about half a teaspoonful of sugar in the glass first and let the lemon juice dissolve the sugar completely. Then add the ice. Carbonated water is preferable to fill the glass with, but plain water will do, the important thing being that you stir the mixture constantly, making the ice do its function, until a light film of frozen dew forms on the outside of the glass. Unless you are lost to all sense of beauty you will now add something entirely superfluous to the glass—a sprig of green or a cherry, or a small piece of sliced fruit.

You have then a beverage that can be recommended wholeheartedly as healthy, cooling, beneficial in every way, including satisfaction to the taste buds and the feelings of the inner man.

Unfortunately, at least for me, the days of 1891 have passed and people no longer devote any loving care to the brewing of a glass of lemonade. Pop and other atrocities have taken its place, and therefore, its reputation has undeservedly declined. I guarantee, however, as these spring days slowly turn into full-throated summer, and flies, mosquitoes and politicians begin to clutter up the horizon, that if you will follow my directions as to preparation, you will have a real treat on your hands.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

R. M. W.: "What is the caloric value of the following foods: A chocolate almond bar, a plain chocolate bar, a serving of the breast of a baked duck, lettuce, limburger cheese and fruit cake?"

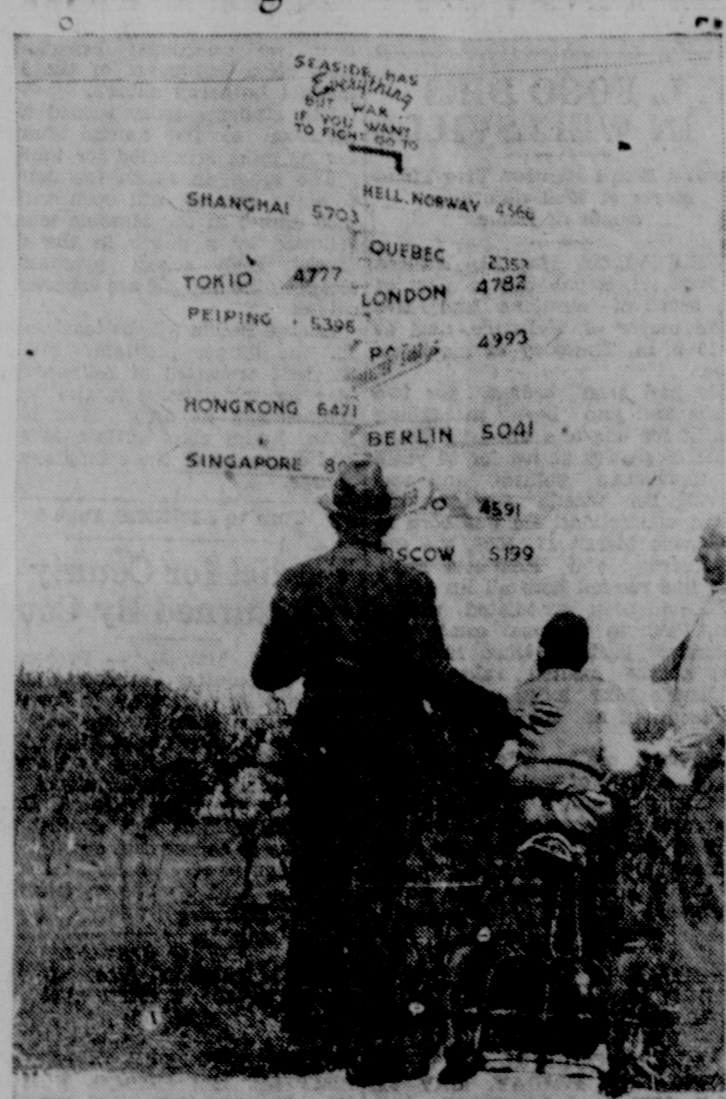

Answer—You do not state how much of any of these articles. Calories depend on weight. Your question is like asking "How many apples can I put in a box?" Chocolate bars come in different sizes, I would say that two or three average healthy bites of a chocolate almond bar would amount to 85 calories, of a plain chocolate bar about 100. An average serving of the breast of baked duck is about 175 calories. The lettuce, limburger cheese and fruit cake combination is about 200 calories.

L. E.: "Please give an exercise for reducing the stomach. All my extra pounds want to go there. I am five and one-half feet tall, weigh 123, am 33 years old."

Answer—It is very debatable whether special exercises will reduce special parts of the body. I have seen some claims, supported by photographs, which would indicate that such exercises as lying on the back and raising both legs together, 40 times morning and evening, will do so. All exercises of this kind should be accompanied by diet.

EDUCATION GOES TO 'CAJUN' ISLE

WPA Officials Teaching English To Persons Of Island

HOUMA, La. — Uncle Victor Naquin, the 70-year-old patriarch of L'Isle de Jean Charles, welcomes the educational innovations finding their way to his semi-tropical island in Terrebonne Bay. The Work Projects Administration and Terrebonne Parish officials are teaching English to the approximately 150 descendants of Jean LaFitte's pirate and native Choctaw Indian women, vaccinating them, teaching them sanitation and to boil drinking water, and otherwise waging an educational program on L'Isle de Jean Charles.

Uncle Victor, who says the island was named for his grandfather, Jean Charles Naquin, is enthusiastic about the program. "It is magnificent," Uncle Victor says. "The little one will now be able to go to Le Nouvelle (New) Orleans, to Houma, and all over La Louisiana. They will be able to leave the island and perhaps make a fine living in the towns."

Proud of Two Sons

"Yes, they may be able to do what only two of her islanders have done before them—go to the outside world and become great cooks." Those two "great cooks" are both sons of Uncle Victor who are chefs in hotels, one in the South, the other in the Middle West. Uncle Victor's constituents are interesting people. Their faces show the influences of the Choctaws and Germans, with high cheekbones and blue eyes. They speak Cajun French, however.

L'Isle de Jean Charles is a little civilization separate from the rest of the world. It is famous for the native cooking. Oysters, shrimp and o'her seafood cooked in huge iron pots hanging in the open fireplaces of the homes on the island are the principal foods. Once each week, everyone attends an all night dance.

Log Cabins Plentiful

The inhabitants live in homes made of logs or salvaged lumber. Most of them are palmetto-thatched.

Uncle Victor likes to administer to his people when they are ill. He creates "brews" to reduce fevers and allay aches and pains—because it is not easy to call a doctor or a nurse to L'Isle de Jean Charles.

Uncle Victor says his grandfather Jean Charles was one of LaFitte's men. He says Jean Charles discovered the island, which was inhabited only by the Choctaws. After the exile of LaFitte from Louisiana, Uncle Victor says, Jean Charles brought a number of his friends there to colonize, and they and their descendants now have lived there for more than 100 years.

Egyptian Mummy Just a "Dummy", Mt. Union Finds

ALLIANCE, May 31.—The dead sometimes have curious ways of coming back to life. The "dead" in this instance is a 3,000-year-old Egyptian mummy from the Mt. Union college museum which came back to life under the college X-ray machine only to prove itself a complete hoax.
When the mummy was placed under the fluoroscope on the X-ray machine, it was found to possess only a head, one hand and two feet. Of the skeleton and other body parts there was not a sign. Instead, the fluoroscope revealed a "skeleton" constructed of two wooden crossbars to which the severed head, hand and feet had been attached.
The wooden frame had been cleverly wrapped with yards of the customary linen mummy cloth, and the whole carefully tacked together.

giving an appearance, from the outside, of a genuine mummy.
With the click of a switch, the inventions of modern science had revealed an ingenious hoax which would have been discovered 70 years ago had the X-ray and fluoroscope been known then.

About 70 years ago when Mt. Union's first president, Orville Nelson Hartshorn, was busy collecting specimens for the college museum, this mummy of an Egyptian girl was given to the college. The donor secured the 3,000-year-old mummy from an archeological company which was excavating at that time in the catacombs of Thebes, the ancient capital of Northern Egypt.
Because, to all appearances, even to its typical carved Egyptian coffin, the mummy looked perfectly genuine, the purchaser was totally unaware of its counterfeit nature.
The false mummy evidently had been "fixed up" with a few spare body parts by the archeological company. So, for 70 years, this mummy has rested in its coffin in Mt. Union museum, until science called the bluff of archeological fraud, and the mummy has been proved a dummy.

Rain Puts Lisbon Program Indoors

LISBON, May 31.—The Memorial observance here yesterday was held in the David Anderson High school auditorium, when, due to inclement weather, the customary parade and services in the city cemetery were dispensed with. The program was carried out as follows:

Selections by the Lisbon High school band, and invocation by Rev. Theodore Cord, pastor of the Christian church; songs by the American Legion and Auxiliary quartet, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bowman, Marian Morris, and Jesse Oakley.

Maj. Hugh Ramsey read Gen. Logan's order, and Lisbon's six Spanish-American war veterans, E. S. Hartman, Ray Thomson, Harry Cation, John Williams, Ira Hall and Guy Nanna were then introduced. Mrs. Lucinda Morlan of Elkton was the only Gold Star mother present, out of five who are members of the auxiliary to John Welsh post. Marvin White, Lisbon High school student, gave Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

The address was given by Rev. John W. Grohne, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church of Leontonia. Centering his comments on the present war situation, Rev. Grohne paid tribute to the deceased veterans and to the living.

The service closed with a song by the quartet and benediction by Rev. Cord, after which the members of the Legion and auxiliary, the Woman's Relief Corps, and school children went to the cemetery where graves of the veterans of all wars were decorated as "taps" were blown by Lester Sexton and Bernard Kaufman.

During the afternoon, members of the John Welsh post American Legion went to Clarkson cemetery where they held a memorial service and decorated graves of soldiers, marking the eighth rural cemetery in which the local post had conducted services during the week.

Memorial Services Are Held In School

Speakers were Atty. Joel H. Sharp of Salem and Ira P. Mellinger of Leontonia. Music was provided by the Salem High school band.

The Sons of Union Veterans firing squad carried out its rites at the soldiers' monument in Hope cemetery.

Hawaiian Belle

Kalmour original

By PRUNELLA WOOD

UP TO this summer the men have more or less had a lease on Hawaiian cottons. Now you'll see the same gay prints used for their beach shorts and shirts in dance frocks for yourself. Prettier, by far, than grass skirts—however green the grass. The dress sketched is one of the simpler prints in two colors only: red and white, navy and white and aqua and white. The flounced skirt is held out with horsehair from the low, fitted waistline. Loops of the fabric keep the puffed sleeves in place and a larger loop at the heart-shaped neckline makes for a molded bustline. Cottons like these require little pampering, at the most a bit of room in your wardrobe. Of course, the horsehair may be removed and the skirt allowed to stand on its own yardage.

miles east of Washingtonville, at 9 p. m. Wednesday by a machine operated by Arlie M. Gilbert, 40, of Cleveland.

Falls to See Stopped Car

Gilbert, who failed to see Case, who had stopped for a stalled truck ahead of him, struck Case's car and swerved out into a machine traveling in the opposite direction and driven by John N. Neihel, 24, of Leetonia.

Miss Vera Liston, 32, and her sister, Miss Elizabeth Liston, 31, both of Columbiana, received lacerations, bruises and abrasions when their automobile, driven by the former, collided with a machine driven by Ross Pazo, 26, of Beaver Falls, on Route 14, three miles east of Columbiana, at 12:45 a. m. today.

Miss Liston was cited by the state patrol for unsafe driving.

Richard Cook, 21, of East Palestine, and Aquilino Diludovico, 24, of Leetonia, suffered abrasions when the car in which they were riding with John P. Marcuso, 21, of Leetonia, was involved in a side-swipe collision with a truck operated by Peter Grillo, 25, of Beaver Falls, on Route 14, three miles east of Washingtonville, at 1 a. m. Thursday.

Find Reese Guilty In Auto Fatality

LISBON, May 31. — Raymond Reese, 27, of East Liverpool, was found guilty of manslaughter in the second degree by a jury in common pleas court here late Wednesday evening.

The trial grew out of the hit-skip death of Arthur Green, elderly Glenwood resident who was found dead along the roadside near his home the night of Aug. 12, 1939.

Based on circumstantial evidence submitted by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Louis Tobin and Samuel Chertoff, the jury declared Reese was the driver of the death car the night of the accident. The car belonged to Roy Schoelcraft of East Liverpool and had been driven away from a picnic at Patterson Foundry works on an Elkrun township farm without his knowledge. The car, with its left front fender, headlight and hood damaged, was found the following morning abandoned on the streets in East Liverpool.

Attorney Raymond Buzzard, defense counsel, indicated a motion for a new trial will be filed. Meanwhile sentence has not been imposed by Judge W. F. Lones, and Reese is at liberty under bond pending a ruling on the motion for a new trial.

Nazis Hold Leopold As Prisoner of War

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN, May 31. — King Leopold III of Belgium is a prisoner of war, an authorized German source disclosed today, and it is unlikely that under that status he will be permitted to name a new Belgian government.

The statement was made in response to questions concerning Leopold's status in view of the disagreement with his emigre government.

(The refugee Belgian government, in France, last night approved an order legally depriving Leopold of the throne "in the name of the Belgian people". The order was published today under the date of May 28, the day Leopold capitulated.)

The Belgian army (which had been estimated at 300,000 men) probably will gain its freedom soon this informant said, and the men permitted to return home. The Belgian soldiers have not been assigned to prisons.

MIDDLETOWN, May 31. — American Rolling Mill Co. will pay July 1 a dividend of $2.12 1/2, a share on 4 1/2 per cent cumulative preferred stock to holders of record June 10. The company said arrears would be brought up to March 31 of this year with the payment.

He spoke of an incident, in which only one officer knew how to blow up a bridge which the Nazi forces were able to cross over the Belgian canal fortifications, as "distinctly unmilitary."

"It is unbelievable that no one under that officer's command of 50 men knew how to blow up the bridge," the spokesman said.

90,000 Allies Landed

LONDON, May 31. — Reliable British sources estimated today that a total of about 90,000 British, French and Belgians had been landed in England from the Flanders battlefield.

About two-thirds of these are British. The total figure, 90,000, is approximately one-half the original strength of the B. E. F. force of 175,000 in Flanders. Hence about one-third, or 58,000, of the original British force is estimated by these sources to be safely home.

There are no figures here on total British or Allied casualties.

successfully is, of course, a matter for trial, but there is no doubt that they would give an excellent account of themselves. I think we might go a step further and put it in this way:

If the Allies can hold the blitzkrieg in hand from now on for a brief space, time will be playing in their favor and it's a fair gamble that they would indeed be able to handle an additional enemy.

Herr Hitler's problem is that he cannot stand a long war because of lack of resources. If the Allies can hold him off now, their road will grow immeasurably easier in the near future.

In any event, if Mussolini comes into the war he will be making a pretty stiff gamble himself.

SYNOPSIS
Wealthy Sam and Helen Snow object to their daughter Gabrielle's interest in handsome Peter Parsons because he has no social background. Gabrielle thinks their disapproval unfounded because her father started as a roustabout in the Oklahoma oil fields before he made his fortune in oil. She becomes angry when her mother reminds her of Uncle Gabriel's will, which stipulates that if Gabrielle marries before she is 21, she is not to receive his money until she reaches 25. With her Boston tutor, Odd, Gabrielle leaves to breakfast at the drug store where Peter works as an $18-a-week soda clerk. A talented pianist, Peter occasionally makes an extra $5 playing at a dance. Gabrielle assures Peter that she really cares for him. "Just having you and a piano is heaven for me," he tells her, and that afternoon Peter got his wish when he visited Gaby during his hours off, and Mrs. Snow was at bridge.

CHAPTER THREE

Peter played the piano, running in a few extra notes when the mood seized him, and humming beneath his breath the whole time. All at once, seeming to understand the theme, he swung into its tempo, playing it rhythmically.

And together they sang the words; all about love and moonlight, June and roses, a boy and a girl....

Violet went back into the kitchen and evidently on out back for the outside door slammed smartly behind her.

Suddenly Peter turned and caught Gabrielle to him breathlessly. He kissed her on the mouth, long vibrant kisses, and Gabrielle gasped but her eyes were shining.

After all, it really was June! Just before five, when Peter had to leave, Gabrielle asked softly and bit hesitatingly:

"Would you like me to meet you tonight at 11, Peter?"

"Could you, Gaby?" murmured Peter, his mouth against her hair.

"I'll manage it," she whispered breathlessly.

Shortly afterward Mrs. Snow came bustling in from her party.

"I had the most marvelous hands all afternoon," she told Gabrielle happily. "It's a real cloisonne vase," she added in awe to her disinterested daughter, exhibiting the prize.

"How does she do it?" she demanded of Gabrielle.

"I think it's silly," announced the girl. "Everyone trying to outdo everyone else."

"Well," observed her mother dryly, "I notice when it's clothes or parties you're having, you always get the best we can allow you!"

Gabrielle smiled suddenly, realizing how true her mother spoke.

"Score one for you, Helen," she said brightly.

"Oh, I almost forgot I had something to tell you," purred her mother. "Come up with me while I change, dear. And then, we really must hurry down and get your father."

The girl followed her mother languidly up the stairs, glad she hadn't been questioned as to her afternoon.

Taking off the blue chiffon, Helen Snow donned a blue linen suit, regarding her pretty daughter cheerfully.

"Gabrielle! You never could guess, so I'll tell you. Your father said we could have a trip to Europe!"

Gabrielle Snow came out of her reverie at once.

"Mother! What on earth are you talking about?"

Just that, darling, Sam said we could afford it! We'll buy some new things, get our passports and be on our way by the first of the month. Think of it, Gabrielle—Europe!

"Really?" asked Gabrielle, and wondered at the lack of warmth in her tone. Why, she told herself, she'd wanted just such a trip since she had entered high school!

"Now let's hurry, dear," said Helen, putting on a hat. "It's almost time for your father. He'll be put out with us if we aren't there promptly at six."

About an hour later, at the dinner table, Helen asked her husband vivaciously:

"Do you think we can get away that soon, Sam?"

Sam Snow smiled humorously: "Well, honey, the length of time it takes you to get ready to go any place would lead me to believe you'd never make it!"

"Oh, stop teasing, Sam!"

Gabrielle said nothing. She felt numb. What was the matter with her, she wondered? Sitting here with a fixed smile on her face and registering absolute zero at the prospect of going to the Continent!

"Gaby doesn't seem too enthusiastic," observed her father.

"She's speechless, I guess," laughed Helen. "Aren't you, darling?"

"I must be," answered Gabrielle paradoxically.

It was easier than she had expected for her to get away that evening. She was well aware of the fact that neither her father nor her mother would approve of her meeting any boy away from home at night. Had they even suspected she was contemplating meeting a mere drugstore soda boy at 11 o'clock, they would have been horrified.

"Gabrielle! Your father said we could have a trip to Europe!" exclaimed her mother.

Soon after dinner, Dorothy Mackey telephoned and asked what she was doing for the evening. When Gabrielle replied, "Nothing particularly," Dorothy announced she was sending Bob Elkhorn over after her drink away, adding that most of the crowd was at her house.

Helen and Sam, quietly reading in the living room, just nodded and smiled when Gabrielle told them where she was going. She added, why she never knew, that she might stay the night with Dorothy.

"I'll take my key along," she smiled. "But I might stay."

But it wasn't so easy to break away from Dorothy's shortly before 11 o'clock. In fact, Gabrielle saw that it was going to be almost impossible. Bob hung around her so, and she knew if she suggested going home, he would insist upon taking her.

Slipping away from the others, she went into the hall and to a telephone. She quickly dialed the Staley Drugstore's number and when someone answered, she asked to speak with Peter.

"It's Gabrielle," she told him a moment later. "I'm at Dot Mackey's. Come by here for me when you get off. Corner of Bunker and Dewey," she elucidated, when he asked where that was.

"Okay, I'll be looking for you in a few minutes. Bye," she finished shortly, as she saw Dorothy Mackey standing by her, grinning.

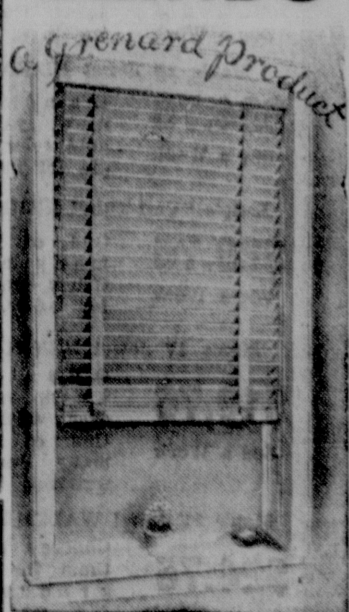

"Up to your old tricks, Gaby! Present company's never good enough for you."

"Don't be silly, Dot," rejoined Gabrielle. "I just had a previous date!" Then, on sudden impulse, she told the other girl all about Peter, and her family objecting to him so strongly.

"Well," said Dorothy pertly. "You have my blessings, sweet!"

"Thank you, Dot," said Gabrielle. She regarded the other girl smilingly.

WAR MAY SPURT WHEAT EXPORTS

Crop Conditions Reported Poor In Many World Areas

WASHINGTON—The Department of Agriculture reports increasing indications that a more favorable export market for American wheat may develop in 1941 or 1942 if the European war continues.

Abnormally large reserve supplies of wheat built up by large yields in recent years precludes the possibility of any shortage this year, despite "unsatisfactory growing conditions" in Europe and North America, it was said.

Consumption of wheat this year is expected to be larger than production. The world last year consumed 4,025,000,000 bushels of wheat and produced 4,270,000,000 bushels. A carry-over of 1,189,000,000 bushels, however, brought the total supply to 5,459,000,000 bushels.

Smaller Crop Foreseen

No official estimate has been made of the 1940 crop, but indications point to total production well under 4,000,000,000 bushels, to which would be added a carry-over of approximately 1,433,000,000 bushels of old wheat on next July 1.

The 1940 wheat acreage in the nine countries from which the department received reports is estimated at 117,857,000 acres, compared with the 1939 acreage of 118,971,000 acres. Sharpest reductions were reported for Rumania and Yugoslavia. Other countries were United States, Canada, Lithuania, Greece, Egypt, Japan and India.

Unfavorable winter weather over large areas of Europe resulted in heavier than normal winter kill, the bureau of agricultural economics said. "In some countries floods are reported to have done damage."

Growing conditions for the 1940 world wheat crop continue unsatisfactory in many important producing areas, and the crop will require favorable conditions for the remainder of the season to make average yields per acre, the bureau said.

Drouth Hits U. S.

The United States wheat crop is expected to total approximately 25,000,000 bushels, or about 150,000,000 bushels below 1939, due largely to the fall drouth which forced abandonment of approximately 15,000,000 acres of winter wheat.

Spread of the war into southeastern Europe would further endanger Europe's bread supply, it was pointed out. Weather conditions in the Danube Basin were said to be "unsatisfactory" and Rumania has halted wheat exports in expectation of a short crop.

The bureau said that the winter wheat crop in Soviet Russia is believed to have been damaged in some important areas and that spring seeding "is much behind schedule."

In India the wheat harvest is underway, with yields slightly above 1939, the bureau said. Conditions in central China were reported to be favorable, but not so good in other parts of the country. Argentine conditions seemed favorable, but Australian farmers were said to be in need of rains.

The bureau said conditions have improved in Canada recently. Surface moisture was said to be adequate, but additional rains will be needed during the growing season because subsoil reserves are low throughout Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

WHEAT ACREAGE FOR '41 SET UP

Columbiana, Mahoning Figures Announced By Committees

A Columbiana county wheat allotment for 1941 of 14,104 acres was announced this week by J. Glenn Bates chairman of the county AAA committee.

This allotment will be apportioned among the wheat growers on the basis of tillable acres, crop rotation practices, type of soil, topography and the acreage of wheat grown in the last three years. Farmers will be given credit for wheat acreage diverted under previous AAA programs, Bates explained.

This acreage allotment is Columbiana county's proportional share of the 62 million acre national wheat allotment which will produce enough wheat for a year's domestic consumption and exports plus a reasonable carry-over.

Farmers who keep within allotments in 1941 will be eligible for a wheat conservation payment, parity payment, if such payment is offered in 1941, wheat loans, if available, and crop insurance. Individual allotments will reach farmers within the next two weeks, Bates reported.

The Mahoning county wheat allotment for 1941 consist of 9,173 acres, according to announcement by Edward L. Craig, Mahoning chairman.

Mahoning county's committee will hold its monthly meeting Tuesday, June 4, at the conservation office, postoffice building, Canfield. The committee will discuss problems brought in by farmers, consider appeals on vegetable allotments and study performance work which is to begin soon. The meeting is open to the public.

NEW RICHES DUE FROM OLD MINE

Quicksilver Mines Will Be Worked Over By Corporation

SAN FRANCISCO — With war demands having advanced the price of mercury from $50 to $172 a flask, the world-famous New Almaden quicksilver mines of Santa Clara county are to be worked over by a new $350,000 corporation.

The New Almaden is the oldest quicksilver mine in the United States and has an important place in mining books and history.

During the period of 1846-1926, it is credited with having produced from $85,000,000 to $10,000,000 worth of quicksilver.

But from a mining community of 13,000 people in its heyday of the 40s it has dwindled to an almost uninhabited region, where a few people work sporadically at extracting quicksilver and where transients occasionally pass to have a glimpse at the spot that once figured so remarkably in the mining days of early California.

But all of this is now scheduled to change rapidly, and the district is expected to take on much of its former activity and regain some of its former population.

Long Period Lease

The entire property has been leased for a long period by Fritz Eugene Newbold, Philadelphia broker, from its owners, William and Mary Sexton, also of Philadelphia, and a corporation is being organized to work the lease.

It is believed the new mining operations will center about Mine Hill, in the middle of the area, and under which there are more than 100 tunnels and shafts dug during the past 90 years.

It is not expected that much new quicksilver finds will be discovered, but the rich cinnabar soil and rock will be worked over again by new and more modern processes to extract quicksilver that escaped the older processes; material that was even discarded in the old days, as well as free quicksilver that was lost years ago when it fell off the wagons and miners did not stop to pick it up. Much quicksilver also still is to be regained from the old dumps.

At present much of the 100 miles of shafts and tunnels of former days is flooded, choked with debris or caved in, so that it is expected that the cheapest way to begin working over the area will be to make open cuts from the top of Mine Hill.

Drag Lines Needed

This open mining will necessitate installation of drag lines and other equipment to dig and move tons of ore to roasters which distill out the valuable mercury.

At the present time there are about a dozen of these roasters installed over the three or four mile area stretching from the New Almaden to the Guadalupe mines, but they do not handle more than a ton of material a day, whereas 90 years ago 100 tons was the capacity for each roaster. Much of this former capacity for handling the cinnabar material will be re-established for working over.

A flask of quicksilver contains 76 pounds, and while the present price of $172 a flask is one of the highest ever reached in the history of mining, the new corporation is confident that even higher prices will prevail.

GREENSBURG, Pa. — The big four-faced clock on the Pennsylvania Railroad station here is ticking the time away again after a repair job that amounted to something of a project. Five carpenters and three expert machinists worked for 10 days getting the mammoth timepiece in order.

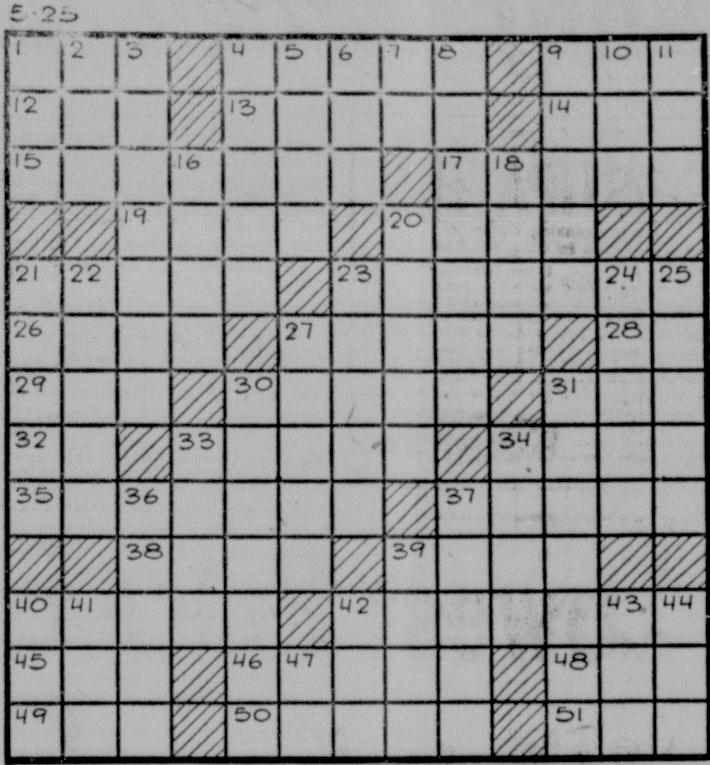

THE BEST IS NONE TOO GOOD to protect your house against the temperature extremes of summer heat and winter cold. Sun-Proof Paint will give you that protection at low cost per year.

E. Palestine Dethrones Salem As County Track Champion

BULLDOGS WIN COUNTY TRACK MEET IN ROMP

East Palestine Scores 63 Points; Quakers Finish Second

The Columbiana county track and field championships passed into the possession of East Palestine High school Wednesday night as the Bulldogs romped to an easy victory in the 37th annual county meet, run off in a heavy rain under the lights at East Palestine's stadium.

Winning nine of 14 events, the Bulldogs piled up 63 points to dethrone Salem High school as county champion. The Quakers finished second, scoring 39 1/2 points.

East Liverpool Third

East Liverpool trailed the Quakers with 14 points, while other teams finished in the following order: Lisbon, 13 1/2; Columbiana, 11; Wellsville, 8; East Fairfield, 5.

A steady rain handicapped the athletes, preventing them from breaking any records.

The nearest threat to a record-breaking performance was turned in by Dick Beck of Salem in the shot put when he heaved the 16-pound iron ball 48 feet, 1 inch to come within one inch of Wayne Russell's county record.

Bill Scally paced the Bulldogs to their one-sided victory, scoring three firsts and one third. Scally, state high jump champion, won the 220-yard dash, Beck the shot put, Bob Shoen the 220-yard low hurdles and Shoen, Cozad, Whinnery and O'Connell the mile relay.

Rhodes, who placed third in the pole vault, was competing in a meet for the first time since injuring his leg early in the season.

Wilbur Shaw Captures His Third Indianapolis Race

Nearly all of the 33 starting cars are shown in this photo as they raced around a turn in the 500-mile Indianapolis auto race which was won for the third time by Wilbur Shaw. It was Shaw's second victory in a row in the annual classic.

SHAW CAPTURES SPEEDWAY RACE FOR THIRD TIME

Wins 500-Mile Grind, Finishing Under Caution Flag

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31.—Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis, who looks like a man-about-town but who has made a small fortune in one of the world's toughest sports—automobile racing—today will collect approximately $30,000 as a reward for his third victory in an Indianapolis motor speedway grind.

Shaw won a history-making 500-mile race yesterday at an average speed of 114.277 miles an hour and joined Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., as the only three-time winners of the local classic.

He became the first man to win two consecutive races and won the first complete race finished under the yellow caution flag which required all drivers to hold their places.

Officials hung out the caution flag at the 375-mile mark because of rain and left it there until the contest ended.

Mays Second

The Indianapolis pilot finished slightly less than 2 1/2 miles ahead of Rex Mays of Glendale, Calif., and when Shaw crossed the finish line the race was called off. Mays, by finishing his last lap, actually drove the full 500 miles, but speedway officials are expected to rule today as to whether he is to be credited with 500 or 497 1/2 miles.

Before the rain the race was a battle between Shaw, who first started racing billy goats at his home town of Shelbyville, Ind., and Mays, who never until yesterday had been in at the finish of a 500-mile race.

Mays led for the first 85 miles, then Shaw moved in front. At 182 miles Shaw stopped for gas and tires and dropped to fifth place. Shaw regained the lead at 260 miles and never was headed.

Shaw drove the Italian Maserati with which he won last year's race. The race was run without a single fatality although there were three spectacular accidents.

Salem Riders Play At Canfield Sunday

Rained out of their opening game at home, the Salem Polo club will face Canfield in their first game of the 1940 season at the Canfield Fair grounds Sunday.

The Salem riders were scheduled to face Canfield here yesterday, but rain forced cancellation of the game.

(Salem) fourth. Distance—48 feet, 1 inch.

DISCUS—won by Sanders (East Palestine); Hawkins (Fairfield) second; Myers (Salem) third; Cook (Lisbon) fourth. Distance—121 feet, 8 1/2 inches.

MILE—RELAY—won by Salem (Shoen, Cozad, Whinnery and O'Connell); East Palestine, second; Wellsville, third; East Liverpool, fourth. Time—3 minutes, 43.4 seconds.

Rain-Soaked Field Stops Softball Leagues Today

Game Postponed Because of Wet Grounds; Complete Schedule To Be Announced Saturday

Softball games scheduled for Class A and Church leagues this evening have been postponed because of wet grounds. J. M. Kelley, director of the leagues, announced today.

Steady rain Wednesday evening and practically all day Thursday soaked the fields used by the two leagues, leaving them unfit for games, Kelley said.

Games scheduled for this evening will be played Monday evening, while Monday's games will be played Tuesday. A complete schedule for the first half of Class A and Church league seasons will be announced tomorrow.

The Salem Recreation and Salem Saxons won their opening games in the Class A league Wednesday evening.

Early Stars

Rallying behind the three-hit pitching of George Early, the Salem Recreation scored three runs in the fourth inning and two in the fifth to spank the News which led until the fourth frame on the strength of one run tallied in the second inning.

Johnny Zines, pitching for the News, gave up seven hits, including two triples by Early.

The Saxons and Trades Class battled through two extra innings with the score tied at 5-5 before SI Wagner broke up the game by driving in the winning run for the seventh.

The score was deadlocked at 5-5 at the end of the regulation five innings after the Saxons had bunched five runs in the second inning and the Trades Class had scored two runs in the second and three in the fourth.

The Saxons collected eight hits from Pitcher Holmes of the Trades Class, had scored two runs in the second and three in the fourth.

The Saxons collected eight hits from Pitcher Holmes of the Trades Class, while Pitcher A. Linder held the Tradesmen to six safe blows.

TWO PITCHERS "MEMORIALIZE" MEMORIAL DAY

Hubbell, Ruffing Turn In Great Performances For Their Teams

By JUDSON BAILEY

Two of baseball's great heroes fittingly memorialized Memorial day for nearly a quarter million fans massed in the major league parks by producing pitching performances such as are reserved only for special occasions.

Foremost on yesterday's program was a one-hit game pitched by Carl Hubbell, the New York Giants' apparently tireless veteran, before a screaming crowd of 34,548 fans in Brooklyn's Ebbets field.

The lean, screwballing southpaw came within one single of a perfect game. In the third inning, Johnny Hudson of the Dodgers singled. A double play immediately eliminated him and no other Dodger reached first. Thus Hubbell faced only 27 batters in winning 7-0 and pushing the Dodgers out of the National league lead.

Ruffing Stops Boston

The other outstanding offering was a two-hitter by Red Ruffing of the New York Yankees in shutting out the Boston Red Sox 4-0 before the third largest crowd in baseball's history, 82,437 at Yankee stadium. For seven innings the big redhead had a no-hitter.

Fourteen games drew 237,828 fans. A doubleheader at Pittsburgh was rained out.

Hubbell's victory was the first of two for the Giants against Brooklyn. The second was tight for 11 innings and then the Giants exploded eight runs in the 12th to win 1-5.

Ruffing's triumph ran the Yankees' winning streak to six games, but the Red Sox won the nightcap 11-4 and preserved a game margin at the top of the American league.

In taking over the National league lead, the Cincinnati Reds swept two games from the Chicago Cubs, who have lost six of their last seven games. The scores were 4-2 and 9-8.

Phillies Split

The Phillies and Boston split the other show in the senior circuit Kirby Higbe allowed five hits to take the first game 5-1. Boston battled back in the nightcap with Lefty Joe Sullivan allowing only six hits and Eddie Miller hitting a grand slam home run in the 11th for a 5-1 victory.

The Cleveland Indians cut down the Chicago White Sox twice by identical scores of 3-1.

Tom Bridges and Schoolboy Rowe were the Detroit Tigers' winners. Bridges pitched eight scoreless innings after the first and beat the Browns 2-1. The Tigers ripped out a 15-6 decision in the nightcap for Rowe's third victory without defeat.

The Washington Senators and Philadelphia Athletics divided their doublebill. The A's nased out the first game 7-6 after Frank Hayes' homer tied the score in the ninth. The Senators stormed back to win the second game 14-2 before darkness halted play at the end of the seventh.

E. Palestine Dethrones Salem As County Track Champion.

BULLDOGS WIN COUNTY TRACK MEET IN ROMP

East Palestine Scores 63 Points; Quakers Finish Second

The Columbiana county track and field championship passed into the possession of East Palestine High school Wednesday night as the Bulldogs romped to an easy victory in the 37th annual county meet, run off in a heavy rain under the lights at East Palestine stadium.

Winning nine of 14 events, the Bulldogs piled up 63 points to dethrone Salem High school as county champion. The Quakers finished second, scoring 39½ points.

East Liverpool trailed the Quakers with 14 points, while other teams finished in the following order: Lisbon, 13½; Columbiana, 11; Wellsville, 8; East Fairfield, 5.

A steady rain handicapped the athletes, preventing them from breaking any records.

The nearest thing to a record-breaking performance was turned in by Dick Beck of Salem in the shot put when he heaved the 16-pound iron ball 48 feet, 1 inch to come within one inch of Wayne Russell's county record.

Bill Scally paced the Bulldogs to their one-sided victory, scoring three firsts and one third. Scally, state high jump champion, won the high jump, pole vault and broad jump and finished third in the 100-yard dash. R. Gray contributed two firsts and a second to East Palestine's total, winning the 100-yard dash and the 440-yard dash and taking second place in the 220-yard sprint.

Thirteen athletes shared Salem scoring. The Quakers picked up four firsts as Elliott Hansell won the 220-yard dash, Beck the shot put, Bob Shaffer the 220-yard low hurdles and Shaefer the 100-yard dash. O'Connell the mile relay.

Other Salem scoring came from Hansell's second in the 100-yard dash, Jim Shaffer's fourth in the high hurdles, Kenny O'Connell's second in the mile run, Art Hornung's fourth in the mile, Tom Rhodes' third in the pole vault, Don Shannon's fourth in the 880-yard run, Jim Turner's tie for second in the high jump, Bob Scullion's fourth in the shot put and Eugene Myers' third in the discus.

Rhodes, who placed third in the pole vault, was competing in a meet for the first time since injuring his leg early in the season.

Wilbur Shaw Captures His Third Indianapolis Race

Nearly all of the 33 starting cars are shown in this photo as they raced around a turn in the 500-mile Indianapolis auto race which was won for the third time by Wilbur Shaw. It was Shaw's second victory in a row in the annual classic.

SHAW CAPTURES SPEEDWAY RACE FOR THIRD TIME

Wins 500-Mile Grind, Finishing Under Caution Flag

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
INDIANAPOLIS, May 31.—Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis, who looks like a man-about-town but who has made a small fortune in one of the world's toughest sports—automobile racing—today will collect approximately $30,000 as a reward for his third victory in an Indianapolis motor speedway grind.

Shaw won a history-making 500-mile race yesterday at an average speed of 114.277 miles an hour and joined Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., as the only three-time winners of the local classic.

He became the first man to win two consecutive races and won the first complete race finished under the yellow caution flag which required all drivers to hold their places.

Officials hung out the caution flag at the 375-mile mark because of rain and left it there until the contest ended.

Mays Second
The Indianapolis pilot finished slightly less than 2½ miles ahead of Rex Mays of Glendale, Calif., and when Shaw crossed the finish line the race was called off. Mays, by finishing his last lap, actually drove the full 500 miles, but speedway officials are expected to rule today as to whether he is to be credited with 500 or 497½ miles.

Before the rain the race was a battle between Shaw, who first started racing bully goats at his home town of Shelbyville, Ind., and Mays, who never until yesterday had been in at the finish of a 500-mile race.

Mays led for the first 85 miles, then Shaw moved in front. At 182 miles Shaw stopped for gas and tires and dropped to fifth place. Shaw regained the lead at 260 miles and never was headed.

Shaw drove the Italian Maserati with which he won last year's race. The race was run without a single fatality although there were three spectacular accidents.

Rain-Soaked Field Stops Softball Leagues Today

Game Postponed Because of Wet Grounds; Complete Schedule To Be Announced Saturday

Softball games scheduled for Class A and Church leagues this evening have been postponed because of wet grounds. J. M. Kelley, director of the leagues, announced today.

Steady rain Wednesday evening and practically all day Thursday soaked the fields used by the two leagues, leaving them unfit for games, Kelley said.

Games scheduled for this evening will be played Monday evening, while Monday's games will be played Tuesday. A complete schedule for the first half of Class A and Church league seasons will be announced tomorrow.

The Salem Recreation and Salem Saxons won their opening games in the Class A league Wednesday evening.

The score was deadlocked at 5-5 at the end of the regulation five innings after the Saxons had bunched five runs in the second inning and the Trades Class had scored two runs in the second and three in the fourth.

The Saxons collected eight hits from Pitcher Holmes of the Trades Class and scored two runs in the second and three in the fourth.

The Saxons collected eight hits from Pitcher Holmes of the Trades Class, while Pitcher A. Linder held the Tradesmen to six safe hits.

RECENTLY we reported that "P. Put" Wright of the San Quentin prison team remained in stir an extra day to help the team through an important game. "Put Put" Put's admirers at Folsom prison want it known he is a graduate of that institution, not San Quentin.

TWO PITCHERS "MEMORIALIZE" MEMORIAL DAY

Hubbell, Ruffing Turn In Great Performances For Their Teams

By JUDSON BAILEY

Two of baseball's great heroes fittingly memorialized Memorial day for nearly a quarter million fans massed in the major league parks by producing pitching performances such as are reserved only for special occasions.

Foremost on yesterday's program was a one-hit game pitched by Carl Hubbell, the New York Giants' apparently tireless veteran, before a screaming crowd of 34,548 fans in Brooklyn's Ebbets field.

The lean, screwballing southpaw came within one single of a perfect game. In the third inning, Johnny Hudson of the Dodgers singled. A double play immediately eliminated him and no other Dodger reached first. Thus Hubbell faced only 27 batters in winning 7-0, and pushing the Dodgers out of the National league lead.

Ruffing Stops Boston
The other outstanding offering was a two-hitter by Red Ruffing of the New York Yankees in shutting out the Boston Red Sox 4-0 before the third largest crowd in baseball's history, 82,437 at Yankee stadium. For seven innings the big redhead had a no-hitter.

Fourteen games drew 237,828 fans. A doubleheader at Pittsburgh was rained out.

Hubbell's victory was the first of two for the Giants against Brooklyn. The second was tight for 11 innings and then the Giants exploded eight runs in the 12th to win 12-5.

Ruffing's triumph ran the Yankees' winning streak to six games, but the Red Sox won the nightcap 11-4 and preserved a game margin at the top of the American league.

In taking over the National league lead, the Cincinnati Reds swept two games from the Chicago Cubs, who have lost six of their last seven games. The scores were 4-2 and 9-8.

Phillies Split
The Phillies and Boston split the other show in the senior circuit. Kirby Higbe allowed five hits to take the first game 5-1. Boston battled back in the nightcap with Lefty Joe Sullivan allowing only six hits and Eddie Miller hitting a grand slam home run in the 11th for a 5-1 victory.

The Cleveland Indians cut down the Chicago White Sox twice by identical scores of 3-1.

Tom Bridges and Schoolboy Rowe were the Detroit Tigers' winners. Bridges pitched eight scoreless innings after the first, and beat the Browns 2-1. The Tigers ripped out a 15-6 decision in the nightcap for Rowe's third victory without defeat.

The Washington Senators and Philadelphia Athletics divided their doublebill. The A's nosed out the first game 7-6 after Frank Hayes' homer tied the score in the ninth. The Senators stormed back to win the second game 14-2 before darkness halted play at the end of the seventh.

POLLY AND HER PALS

the Brooklyn Dodgers hold a synthetic percentage margin in the National league race, the Reds relaxed from their double Memorial day trimming of the Chicago Cubs by shooting golf and lobby-jockeying the baseball world.

It was just about this time last year that the Reds took the top spot from the St. Louis Cardinals and nobody ever displaced them after that.

The victories over the Cubs, by scores of 4 to 2 and 9 to 8, tied in nicely with the Dodgers' double dive before the New York Giants. Instead of the Reds having won more games than the Brooks and still being behind on the basis of figures, the team bounced to a wholesome two-game lead.

Derringer Wins
Between Paul Derringer's calm pitching in the opener and the Reds' refusal to look facts in the face in the nightcap, the Cubs were pretty well surrounded before 30,000 of their faithful.

Paul allowed 10 hits but he took good care of his earned-run average. Bill Nicholson's homer with a man on in the fourth was the net for the Cubs. The Red offense took care of General Bill Lee and his successors.

It took 12 innings to settle the sunset argument. The Reds built up a lead for Whitey Moore but he couldn't keep it and they went into the eighth trailing, 8 to 5. They squared it up on two walks and singles by Billy Hershberger and Johnny Rizzo.

Joe Beggs ignored Cub threat from then until the end. In the 12th Claude Passeau, who took up where Charlie Root left off in the eighth, walked Ival Gooden and let Hershberger and Rizzo put on the one-two singles again and there was the game.

The Boston Bees came higher Saturday. Gene Thompson will pitch for the Reds.

MOLECULES PUT DUST ON WALLS

"Thermal Precipitation" Responsible For Dirt In Houses

PITTSBURGH—Housewives who find uncleanly smudges left on walls and ceilings at the end of the winter heating period can blame

it all on "thermal precipitation," a Pittsburgh research engineer has discovered.

In an effort to explain much of the reason for the yearly drudge of spring housecleaning, R. A. Nielson made a winter-long investigation of dirt distribution in typical suburban homes in the Pittsburgh district.

Armed with a variety of instruments—among them thermocouples, a galvanometer and a potentiometer—Nielson arrived at the conclusion that blame for the wall smudges must be placed on the billions of invisible molecules of gas that bump into dirt particles in the air and spread them unevenly over the walls.

He found that the molecules of gas—composed of oxygen and nitrogen—bounce through space with a velocity of about 2,000 feet a second, and make contact with the dust particles kept moving near the walls and ceiling by the movement of convection. The dirt particles are literally driven to the wall by a tug-of-war between high-speed molecules moving from the warmer part of the room and relatively slower moving molecules between the dirt particle and the cooler wall surface. Nielson also offered an explanation for the concentration of dirt in streaks on certain parts of the walls and ceilings. In the average house, he pointed out, the walls are not of uniform temperature.

since lath, plaster and studding offer different degrees of resistance to heat leakage.

The majority of dust particles, he said, are driven against colder sections, forming the familiar wall streaks. The same is true of the accumulation of dirt on walls above radiators, where the light and dark vertical patterns show the paths taken by air currents.
